1.3.25

a Lesson in the University of The New Covenant

Theodore Cottingham, February 1, 2005 10 a.m.

www.unc.bz

1. I have given you this day, and I have given you my love. I have given you my hugs and kisses; my words; and I give you now so many more. So many more, Ted, do I bring you into; and mornings and evenings, and times alone, and in times with others, for yea, even in their presence I hug you and I kiss you, and I give you me; for you display, and you show, and you show with tenderness, my love. Yea, on the right track you are. Yea, into me more; questing, questing, questing, ever questing, and more; abiding in me, yea, for me to come through in the still of the night, in the still of the morning; in the still even when you are with others, yea, even laughing and sharing my love together.
2. I love you and I give you me, and there is no limit in me, and there is no limit to me, and I no-limit you, as I have said times before. You are without limit and without boundary.
3. Now see me, and walk me, and continue to create in the word of my mouth, in the word of your mouth coming forth, yea, as yesterday has begun. Thank you. Amen.